FRANKLIN HOUSE

DETROIT, MICH.

It is well before leaving home, whether for business or pleasure, to decide upon a hotel and thereby avoid confusion.

When you visit Detroit we would like to have you stop at the old Franklin House, cor. Larned and Second Sts., where you will have a good meal and a clean bed at moderate rates. The house has been reappointed from top to bottom and is now in first-class condition. Respectfully,

J. M. JAMES.

HUMOROUS.

He—"The best thing to seal a proposal is a kiss, is it not?"

She—"No. The best thing to seal a proposal is a witness."—Truth.

"What did you do with the check your father-in-law gave you for a wedding present?" "Had it framed; no one would cash it."—Boston Gazette.

"She is a great favorite with the male sex." "Yes." "Why doesn't she marry?" "Her numerous engagements prevent her."—New York Press.

"Call him a veteran joke writer? Why, he is not more than 20 years old." "That is so; but his jokes are veterans all the same."—Indianapolis Journal.

Possible purchaser—"Now, is this mule perfectly gentle?" Uncle Mose—"Well, sah, I nebba knowed him to bite anybody yet."—Cincinnati Tribune.

"Can I see you apart for a moment?" "You mean alone, don't you?" "Yes; a loan—that's it, exactly. I want to borrow five."—Indianapolis Journal.

Daughter (sweeping)—"Oh, papa, to-day I enter already on my thirteenth year. Father—"Calum yourself, child—it won't last long."—Fliegende Blaetter.

Clara—"Were there any marrying men down on the beach this summer?" Cora—"Yes; there were two ministers and a justice of the peace."—Yonker's Standard.

"Cholly is very unfortunate in the impression he makes," said one girl. "Yes," replied another. "His clothes are so loud and his remarks are so soft!"—Washington Star.

Easterly—"You have no system of street sweeping in Prairie City, of course?" Col. Kansas—"Bless you, yes! The cyclones do that for us regularly."—New York Herald.

"What was the trouble over at the Woman's Club yesterday afternoon?" "I never heard such talking." "Oh, it was the first whist party they've had this fall."—Chicago Inter Ocean.

Physician—"You must avoid all excitement, avoid beer or wine entirely, and drink only water." "But, doctor, the idea of drinking water excites me more than anything else."—Fliegende Blaetter.

"What's the matter with Jennings, Harlow?" "Oh, some mental trouble. He suffers from a complete loss of memory." "Suffers? Joy, he's in great luck, considering his past."—Harper's Bazar.

Edith—"Mersey, quick, help me hold Rover; here comes Mr. Slim-bull ready for a swim." Frances—"Well, what of it?" Edith—"Why, I've taught Rover to bring sticks out of the water."—Chicago Inter Ocean.

Patient—"Can you tell me, doctor, the cause of baldness?" Physician—"Nothing easier, sir. It is due to the falling out of the hair. Will you pay me now, or shall I put it down to your account?"—Boston Transcript.

Teacher—"What is your name?" Little Boy (from England)—"Eury Hadams." Little Girl (from New York)—"He, he! Hear him misplace his h's." Teacher—"And what is your name?" Little Girl—"Dar Wannah."—Good News.

Id—"If I were in your place, I wouldn't paint that house white; I'd paint it brown." Weeks—"If you were in my place, you'd probably be so mad that you'd paint it red, just to spite the people who gave you advice about it."—Truth.

Foreman—"Can't get that Japanese victory in anyway unless you kill the ball game." Editor—"Oh, hold it over; change 'Japanese' to 'Chinese' throughout and run it tomorrow, and we'll scoop the next day's papers."—Boston Transcript.

"Hallo, Yellow! You are looking as bright as a dollar. 'I'm feeling as bright as one, too.' 'You must have been taking a long vacation.' 'On the contrary, I haven't taken any; that's why I'm looking and feeling so well.'—New York Press.

He—"Suppose I should ask your father if I could marry you. Do you think I would stand any chance?"

She—"No. Your case would be hopeless."

He—"Do you think he would really say so?"

She—"Not that, but he would leave it to me."—Judge.

JOHN MILLEN, Superintendent.

H. M. REEVES, Agt. Alpena.

John Demands Justice.

John started out in the morning and said:

"To-day I am going to demand perfect justice from all men. I propose to have my rights to-day."

He boarded a street car. The conductor soon came around to collect the fares. John passed him two cents.

"Five cents," said the conductor.

"But I am only going a mile," said John.

"I don't care if you're only going a block, you pay five cents in this car," replied the conductor.

"Why, I rode the whole length of the line—six miles—yesterday and only paid five cents, and I don't propose to pay the same price for riding one mile," said John.

"I don't care what you propose," said the conductor, "you must either pay your five cents or get off."

"Don't you see, man," said John, "how monstrously unjust and inequitable your action is? There is no justice in it. It is a terrible outrage. It is a monstrous imposition. Shall a man pay the same for one barrel of flour that he does for six? Shall he pay the same price for one egg that he does for half a dozen? Shall he give as much for a pair of cuffs as he does for a whole suit? Shall he pay as much for riding one mile as for riding six? I refuse to pay."

"Then you get off," said the conductor. The car was stopped and John was dropped on the sidewalk without further ceremony.

"There is no justice in this world," muttered John as he picked himself up and started for the post office to mail a letter.

"What will be the postage on a letter which I wish to send to the next town, a distance of three miles and a half?" asked John.

"Two cents, of course," replied the clerk at the stamp window.

"Why, I sent one to San Francisco yesterday for two cents," said John, "and that was about a thousand times as far."

"Can't help that," said the clerk.

"Can't help that! Why, man, it's a monstrous injustice. Does this great American government propose to sanction such an iniquitous act as this? Does it propose to give the approval of its governmental indorsement to such a bare-faced injustice as this?"

"I guess she does," replied the clerk.

"Then this government has entered into a covenant with sin. It has become a partner with iniquity, and I will have nothing to do with a thing so base. I will carry my letter to the next town myself."

"Government is very sorry to lose your patronage," replied the clerk, as John turned to go. "It counted on that two cents of yours to pay the national debt."

John stood outside the post office a long time, ruminating on the awful injustice that prevails in society.

"Move on! Don't block up the sidewalk here!" said a voice in his ear.

John looked up and saw a policeman.

"Isn't this a free country?" asked John.

"Move on!" said the policeman.

"Am I injuring the sidewalk?" asked John.

"Move on, I say, and don't try to be fresh with me!"

"Your request, man, is unjust. I injure the sidewalk more by moving over it than I do by standing still. I might stand here for a hundred years and not wear out the city. I do not injure the municipality by simply standing here. I won't break the paving stones or make the street even in. I have no intention of carrying off the post office in my pocket. I stand here for absolute justice. Give me my rights!"

The policeman took him by the collar and hustled him across the street. "Now," said he, "clear out. If I see you here again I will run you in."

John concluded he would not seek for absolute justice any more that day. He still holds to the opinion, however, that it is an excellent thing; but its price is too high for him.

Crazy Elephants.

When were present the elephant in possession of such intellectual gifts as may be his, there has to be considered the case of the elephant that, being "must," is for a time bereft of its senses. It is only the male that suffers from this affliction of insanity; but every male is liable of all cases of consumption can, if taken in the earlier stages of the disease, be cured. This may seem like a bold assertion to those familiar only with the means generally in use for its treatment; as, nasty cod-liver oil and its filthy emulsions, extract of malt, whiskey, different preparations of hypophosphites and such like patent medicines. Not every case, but a large percentage of cases, and we believe, fully 98 per cent, are cured by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, even after the disease has progressed so far as to induce repeated bleedings from the lungs, severe lingering cough with copious expectoration (including tubercular matter), great loss of flesh and extreme emaciation and weakness.

Do you doubt that hundreds of such cases reported to us as cured by "Golden Medical Discovery" were genuine cases of that dread and fatal disease? You need not take our word for it. They have, in nearly every instance, been so pronounced by the best and most experienced home physicians, who have no interest whatever in misrepresenting their own and who were often strongly prejudiced and advised against a trial of "Golden Medical Discovery," but who have been forced to confess that it surpasses in curative power over this fatal malady, all other medicines with which they are acquainted. Nasty cod-liver oil and its filthy "emulsions" and mixtures, had been tried in nearly all these cases and had either utterly failed to benefit, or had only seemed to benefit a little for a short time. Extract of malt, whiskey, and various preparations of the hypophosphites had also been faithfully tried in vain. The photographs of a large number of those cured of consumption, bronchitis, lingering cough, asthma, chronic nasal catarrh and kindred maladies, have been skillfully reproduced in a book of 150 pages which will be mailed to you, on receipt of address and six cents in stamps. You can then write those cured and learn their experience.
